

TERRY & MARY PEABODY

Terry Peabody is Chairman and owner of Craggy Range, providing the direction, resources, business acumen and determination for growth. By any measure, East Coast American born Terry is one of Australia's most successful entrepreneurs with his success in building waste management and transportation companies and business interests extending from the USA and Canada to Europe, Asia Australia and New Zealand.

As Founder of Transpacific Industries Ltd, he built a company with more than 115 sites in Australia and New Zealand and in excess of 7000 employees. He is also the Chairman and President of Pozzolanic Philippines, a Manila based company involved in fly ash waste management businesses. Terry is well known in Queensland business for his pioneering work with Pozzolanic and as a local manufacturer and distributor for Western Star trucks.

Through his development of Transpacific Industries Ltd, Terry has been a prime instigator on environmental protection in Australia, known for providing economically cost effective, more environmentally-sustainable services within the waste management industry.

As a person who has an appreciation for good food and wine, he was the majority shareholder in the landmark Brisbane restaurant 'The Fountain Room' (known as the company canteen to the employees of the day).

Mary Peabody has an extensive background in the hospitality business in Canada and Australia and Craggy Range's renowned, award-winning 'Terrôir' restaurant is one of her focuses. Fine food and wine were very much a part of her upbringing in Pennsylvania, USA and that has continued. Terrôir was conceived as a beautiful setting in which to share with friends, family and fellow enthusiasts.
